EXCLUSIVE!

TOWIE's back!

So more hot Faiers sisters action! Cool!

IT'S A bit like the football close season. With TOWIE off our screens, we see our favourite players pop up in the press on their hols, read about all sorts of wild transfer gossip... then bang! The new season starts and they're back on our TV, twice a week, with a freshly tweaked line-up, but the same eye-catching play.

Thankfully, the Faiers sisters Sam and Billie are always first on the team sheet, and we can look forward to another strong season of sexy interplay. Like these nice pics, reminding you just how fit they look in their new kit. And that's it. We've officially used up all our rubbish football gags for the rest of the magazine.

TOWIE facts!

Tidbits of TOWIE truths!

1 THE STARS WERE PAID £50 PER DAY!

The stars make their money from personal appearances, shoots etc. Originally, pay was £50 per day. Recently, it was hiked to a generous £80, 15 per cent of which is paid to the production company.

2 BRIAN BELO IS SUING THEM!

The Big Brother winner made a promo for a suspiciously TOWIE-looking show called Totally Essex in 2010 that featured cast members including Amy Childs, Mark Wright and Kirk Norcross. He claims his idea was nicked. The courts are currently deciding this.

3 IT'S A BAFTA WINNER!

The show won the Audience Award at the 2010 BAFTAs, to the unbridled and obvious disapproval of Sherlock stars Martin Freeman and Benedict Cumberbatch, both in the audience.

4 SERIES 3 WAS THE MOST POPULAR!

With a debut of 2.1 million and average viewership of 1.7 million, the third series has been the most watched to date.

5 IT HASN'T TROUBLED THE POP CHARTS!

The cast released a cover of White Christmas in 2011 which reached no.33, while Joey Essex's single Reem, released in the same year, failed to chart at all.

CURVY CUTIE!

The fly tipping had really got out of hand

SQUISHED SALOON!

The crate escape!

There is a person inside this car.
She is not having a good day!

WHERE ELSE but China? Of course, this shipping container worked itself free from its HGV carrier in Zhangjiagang, Jiangsu province, China. And of course it toppled right onto this poor, unnamed lady following in her black Nissan saloon.

But not of course, the lady managed to slip into the footwell, receiving only minor injuries as her car was pancaked. After half an hour or so, she was freed as firefighters took a crane to the container and cut her out of the car. Before proceeding to the next implausible emergency.

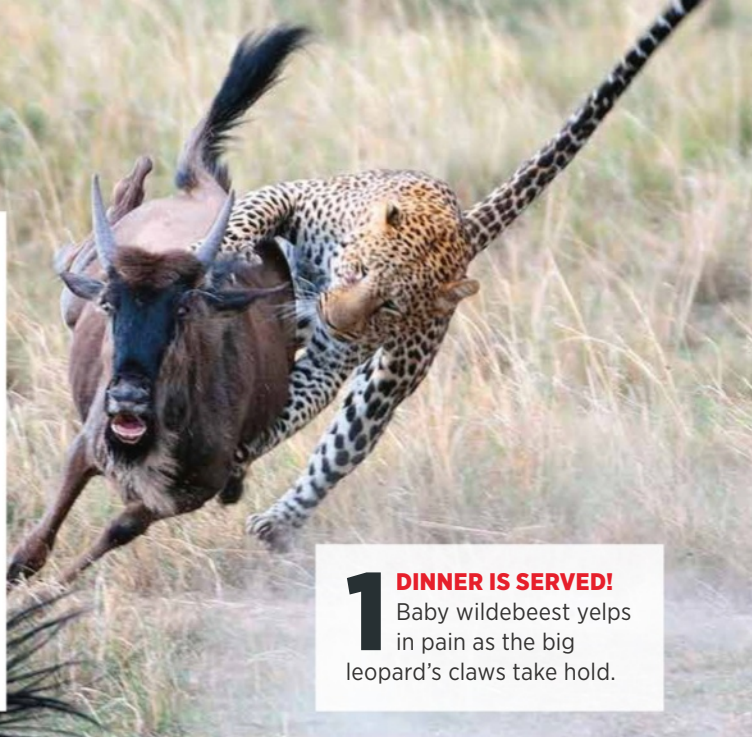

Mum of the year!

Mummy wildebeest sees off leopard!

➔ WHEN THIS hungry leopard sunk its claws into a young wildebeest calf on the Masai Mara plain in Kenya, it probably thought dinner was served. But the big cat didn't count on the arrival of the wildebeest's mum, who swiftly arrived to give the fangy feline a shoeing it would never forget.

The leopard then probably slunk home to tell its starving, impossibly cute kittens that daddy had failed again, and he was going to have to sell one of them to poachers.

That turned a corner, didn't it?

1 DINNER IS SERVED!
Baby wildebeest yelps in pain as the big leopard's claws take hold.

2 IN FOR THE KILL!
As the leopard goes in for the kill, mum realises the danger.

3 MUMMY'S COMING!
Mummy wildebeest piles in as fast as her little hooves will take her.

4 WAIT FOR IT...
A blur of hooves and horns, Mrs W goes full pelt at the cat.

Leopard facts!

- Leopards can run up to 36mph. Usain Bolt runs at 28mph. Over a very short distance.
- They're excellent tree climbers. Often dragging whole carcasses up. So no escape there.
- They are also excellent swimmers and have been known to take human prey. Gulp.

5 WALLOP!
The wildebeest smashes, horns-first, into the leopard's chest.

6 JOG ON!
There's only one winner, as the leopard legs it, lunchless.

EXCLUSIVE!

A quick word with Greg Davies!

The giant comic on lady's knickers, rubbish cars, The Inbetweeners 2 and his new sitcom!

➔ Hi Greg! You've written and star in your own sitcom called Man Down. How easy is it to write a sitcom?

I'm amazed when I listen to writers talking about the glory of the writing process and how wonderful and enriching it is for their lives. I found it awful from start to finish. I felt like I was losing my mind. I'd do it very differently next time. I'd have a warden in the room to come over and stroke me every now and again and go, "It's OK."

You play a disgruntled teacher called Mr Davies, who's in his 40s and still lives with his parents. Where did you get the idea?

I was a teacher for a long time – an unhappy teacher – and I just channelled that sadness. I always wanted it to be about a man who's lost at sea and ill-equipped for life. When I was a teacher, I was constantly making wrong decisions and everything that went wrong was my fault. In a lot of sitcoms, you feel sorry for the character because they're victims of fate, but I wanted it to always be his fault.

Were you really that hopeless a teacher?

I think I did a pretty good job of fooling kids into thinking I knew what I was doing. I felt guilty though.

That's why there's a little girl in the sitcom who always sees through me. There had to be one kid who sussed me out as a sort of apology to all the children I taught. I actually taught at the school we filmed. I certainly wasn't far from that character when I was there. But for the record, if you watch episode five, I haven't fked my mum's cleaner.

Ahem! Who's worst – Mr Davies from Man Down or Mr Gilbert from The Inbetweeners?

Er... I think Mr Gilbert because he's a sociopath. It's a question I get all the time, "How close were you to Mr Gilbert when you were a teacher?" I say, "How close do you think I was? I'd be arrested." I think it's him for that reason. And he has a genuine dislike of children.

Talking of The Inbetweeners – are you going to be in The Inbetweeners 2 movie?

I'm relatively positive.

Er... What does that mean?

I've just been told I'm not allowed to talk about it or somebody will kill me.

Boo! OK, back to Man Down... The first episode sees you running around in a pair of red lady's pants. Do you like...

...Running around in my pants in public? I seem to have made a career of it. I don't think I've been in anything apart from my stand-up where I'm not at some point in my pants. I can only assume it's some sort of self-flagellation where I look at the state of disregard I've allowed my body to get into, and want to punish myself by showing everyone else.

"I can't believe I got papped again!"

And it's not just your pants... Is the figure-hugging Lycra outfit we see you during one episode in a bid for a slot on Strictly Come Dancing?

Exactly, it's the carrot to the donkey that is Strictly Come Dancing. I'm just waiting for the call. When you've got the sort of moves I've got, it can't be long before that happens. That was fun, that scene. You're going to find it hard to believe, but we improvised that dance. A choreographer did come in, but they just looked at us and went, "I can't help these people."

What is it with all this dressing up? Can we expect full nudity by the end of the series?

I just like dressing us all up as tw*ts... sorry, I've got to stop swearing. My mother might be reading. I think there's a profound lack of dignity in every episode. There are horrors to come.

Rick "Bombardier" Mayall plays your dad. There's an uncanny similarity between you two.

My whole career, people have told me I look like a fat, tall, inferior version of him. It's based on my dad and his lunacy over the years. It was only a fantasy, "Obviously we'll get Rick Mayall to do that." When we rang him up on a whim and he said yes, it

"I've made a career of running around in my pants!"
Greg Davies

was unbelievable. There's one scene where my dad takes me to the house of his first love and something horrific happens. My dad actually did this, which shows the lengths he'd go to wind up his son. So getting Rick Mayall to play my dad and act out a scene from my past was a dream.

Have you dared show your real dad any episodes yet?

I've shown them all to my parents. I think he likes it. I think the honest truth is he's deeply frustrated that he couldn't play my dad.

Thanks for the chat, Greg.

Finally, are there any other home truths in Man Down?

When I was teaching, I had a Citroën BX that had a broken seat, which I didn't fix. So the scene where I drive past and I'm on the back seat was my life for about 18 months. We couldn't get a Citroën BX because they're so rubbish, there aren't any left. So I drive an ancient Triumph. The day we finished filming, I was in my flat, and went to get some milk. Behind me, one of those cars pulled out, the same colour, with a little man behind the wheel. I thought, "This is it. I'm having the breakdown I've been expecting!"

● Man Down starts at 9.30pm, Friday 18 October, on Channel 4/HD.

Your very own jet pack!

On sale next year – for just £125k!

THIS HANDSOME thing is the Martin Aircraft Company P12. It's a VTOL (vertical take off and landing), fully certified personal jet pack. And it's going on the market next year. Its maximum speed is 46mph, it'll cruise to an altitude of 900m, with a flight time of around 30 minutes and a range, therefore, of 30km. And we want one so much, it's making our teeth itch!

MASSIVE BUZZ!

Hornets always won
on rock, paper,

Monster hornet invasion!

Terrifying, aggressive, winged stingers overrun China. Time to stock up on bug spray!

BE VERY grateful that you don't live in China's Shaanxi province. Because right now, these monster bees – Asian giant hornets – are running riot.

They've already killed over 40 unfortunate victims and seriously injured hundreds more.

If stung, you're likely to die of anaphylactic shock and acute renal failure within days. And as if that wasn't scary enough, it turns out they don't give up.

"The more you run, the more they want to chase you," one victim told reporters. Don't have nightmares, chaps!

WORDS: RORY BUCKERIDGE

"Mmm... cheese!"

Giant hornet facts!

- The queen hornets can grow over 5cm in length, with stings around 6mm.
- They can travel up to 60 miles per day at speeds of nearly 25mph.
- One victim, when admitted to hospital had urine the colour of soy sauce, according to reports.
- Their neurotoxin venom dissolves human tissue.

5 reasons this could be your next controller!

Meet the Steam Controller. It's ace!

1 This is the controller for the Steam Machine game console. It has two circular pads, which provide haptic feedback (ie they vibrate). It's configurable to individual games too.

3 The Steam Machine is powered by Valve's SteamOS, a Linux-based, gaming-centric operating system. All it does is play PC games. From discs, downloads, or streamed from another PC.

5 This should deliver a cheap, powerful, configurable PC console that'll play better-looking games than an Xbox One or PlayStation 4. Which is interesting!

2 The Steam Machine is made by Valve – who run the Steam PC games service – and third-party PC manufacturers. It's a console that will pipe PC games to your flat-screen.

4 Unlike a conventional console, where gamers get what they're given, 300 Steam Machines will be given to the "community" to beta test and troubleshoot, to make it the best it can be.

0-62MPH IN 4.4 SECS!

Beemer's sweet, new 3.0-litre M4!

Classic BMW coupé adds turbos, reintroduces straight six powerplant, wins all our hearts!

- BMW is trying to confuse our brains with unnecessary numbers at the moment. Take the new 4-Series. It's the new name for the 3-Series coupé, basically, although BMW stresses there are many design tweaks between the outgoing 3-Series coupés and this new crop of 4s.
- So is the M3 dead? Nope. The new M3 is going to be a four-door saloon shape only, and it goes on sale at the same time as this M4 – which is a two-door coupé (just like all the previous M3s). Clear as mud. But both cars will share engines and chassis, and many interior cabin bits and pieces.

- The big news is that the M4 will use turbos – a pair of them, to be exact – to build its Bavarian muscle. Even bigger news is that the V8 engine from the last M3 is dead, and instead BMW has gone back to its roots of straight-six M power.

"Be honest, now, are these contact lenses too much?"

"Hand me the eye drops. It was a long night!"

The Mitchell brothers' lock-up held surprising treats

WORDS: JONNY SMITH

- So this 3.0-litre lump is lighter, more modern, more manic but less addicted to super-unleaded. Despite having a pair of turbos, intercooler and associated pipework the new engine is 10kg lighter than the 4.0-litre V8. Power is raised by 10bhp to 424bhp and it's delivered lower in the rev range. Torque (which is the real decider of fast-feeling cars) rises massively from 295 to 369lb-ft. So 62mph will be hit in around 4.4 seconds. Top whack? Probably the boringly restricted 155mph.

- And it gets better, because the new M4 will be available with a trusty old manual gearbox for the old school lo-fi lovers, or a seven-speed double-clutch paddle system for people who want just the two foot pedals.
- Being an M car, the M4 wears different body styling in the form of a deeper front bumper that incorporates gaping air intakes, front splitter, hallmark bulging bonnet, rear diffuser and quad tailpipes. There are also breather gills slashed into each front wing, which wear the M sport badge.

- And then there's the diet. The M4's weight-watching programme involved using less metal and more techy plastics for panels. Also, a carbon fibre roof. Even the boot is 5kg lighter than before, because it's CFRP

(carbon fibre reinforced plastic). So the M4 is 80kg lighter than the previous M3 (less than 1,500kg in total says BMW).

- So it may have a silly, unnecessary new name, but to all intents and purposes, this, ladies and gents, is the new M3. It's probably the most important BMW of the last 20 years and is shaping up to be a light, tight, right Quattro killer. And it can be yours for around £58k.

"Right. Let's go catch us some flies!"

Clumsy cookery carve-up leads to our first flapjack-based carnage!

→ DON'T LOOK doesn't only provide pictures of bodily mutilation, it's also educational. This week's lesson: be afraid of flapjacks! It was a portion of said delicacy that led to Nuts reader Tom Pike skewering his hand.

Tom explains, "I was getting flapjacks for my girlfriend's parents but they were stuck to the tray. I tried to prise them up with a knife but it slipped and went through my other hand. My girlfriend was screaming – I didn't notice anything was wrong until then!"

"Blood was squirting all over. I'd severed an artery and cut a nerve. I needed 15 stitches, but it didn't hurt – there was just lots of blood."

Even worse, Tom's missus' parents had to go without their flapjacks.

CHELSEA FERGUSON

Hello again Chelsea! So how was the reaction to your Nuts debut in the summer?

Hello! Well, Twitter went mad. I was really nervous, having not done a lot of modelling, but it was the best. Before the shoot, I was like, "Think sexy thoughts, think of trying to seduce someone!"

You already had a mammoth following. Do you have gazillions more admirers now?

I've never really noticed one day where it has gone up a lot more than the others, but that's because it tends to go up a couple of thousand every couple of days anyway. It all depends on how many pictures I put on. If I take five or six good pictures and put them straight on there, I'll notice a couple of thousand within the next few hours.

Are you still a bit overwhelmed by all the attention you get?

I didn't realise how popular my boobs were going to become. I'd go as far to say they're the most famous boobs in Britain at the minute. It's mental! It started as a big joke really, and I think fans who get me also find it all funny – the getting my boobs out in Nando's and by my cereal and stuff. Ha-ha!

Pretty soon you'll be at half a million followers. Surely some companies have tried to muscle in on your popularity.

Everyone's trying! People are like, "Will you tweet about this product?" Or, "Will you tweet about my friend's business?" In the nicest way, I say no. There's no point selling products all the time because people will just unfollow me. It's all about the boobs, the pictures and people enjoying what I'm tweeting.

But you've made some dosh out of being a Twitter sensation. How have you done it?

The way I make money is by doing appearances at clubs. ►

A high-angle photograph of Chelsea Ferguson lying on her stomach on a bed with white linens. She has long, wavy blonde hair and is wearing a black bikini top with white polka dots and black high-heeled shoes with red soles. Her head is turned away from the camera, and her legs are bent at the knees. The background shows a patterned headboard and a lamp.

She is sitting on a bed with white linens. In the background, there is a nightstand with a glass top holding various decorative items, including a pink figurine and a white swan. To the left, there are patterned curtains with pink and white designs.

when I’m out!”

The clubs get known because I tweet about it. It's like, "Oh, what's this club in Newcastle that Chelsea Ferguson's going to?" I turn up at the club that brings people in to meet me.

Has it afforded you some nice wheels?

Yeah, I used to drive a Corsa and now I drive an Audi. But I'm selling that soon and getting a better car. I was going to get a BMW X6, which I ended up cancelling because it was a three-litre diesel and I thought, "Fk that, it's going to cost me a fortune in petrol and insurance!" So I'm looking for something more sensible.

You've been on the front page of your local paper. Does this mean you're officially a celebrity now?

Ha-ha! I'm not a celebrity and I don't want to think I am, but everywhere I go, I get recognised, like at the petrol station when I've got no make-up on! Also, I can't just wear the same outfit on a night out because so many people ask me for pictures now. I'm like, "I can't wear that again, I've had about 50 pictures in it!"

What's been the most awesome thing about your fame?

Well, it's had its perks. For example, me and my friends stayed in a hotel in Manchester before we flew on holiday in the summer. I tweeted that I was staying there and then the manager – a woman who follows me on Twitter – came downstairs and gave us free drinks all night just because she was a fan. She said, "Oh, I think you're dead funny!" It was really nice of her.

Who do you love to follow on Twitter?

I like Ricky Gervais. He's funny. He's like me – he'll put sarcastic comments up so people bite at them. I like him.

How do you deal with the nonsense Twitter brings?

If you just remind yourself it's only online, it's OK. To be ► honest, I've hardly ever had any altercations in real life. No one really says anything to me or tries to do anything to me. People who make negative comments online are jealous people who just want to spoil things for you.

CHELSEA FERGUSON

“I loved it when I was linked with Harry Styles!”

After all that gubbins about you and Harry Styles allegedly having a “thing”, did you feel the wrath of the One Direction fans?

I got so much sh*t off of all them little One Directioners! They're an absolute army. They would have killed me if they'd seen me in the street. All because the press put it on the front page of the paper. A few days later, they had to retract it and print an apology. The really daft thing about it all is that I've never even met Harry Styles!

How did you feel when you saw all that stuff in the paper?

My mum woke me up on the Sunday morning and showed me the front page. It was crazy. There was this double-page spread of me with WKD Blue bottles in my mouth – proper classy! It made it onto [celeb blogger] Perez Hilton's site too – I loved it! Any press is good press. Harry Styles as well – it honestly couldn't have been anyone better!

Almost as many followers as the PM, front page stories about you and One Direction. Surely TV beckons?

They asked me to apply to go in the jungle. I was like, “No chance!” And Celebrity Big Brother. To be fair, I'd do Big Brother, but I wouldn't do I'm A Celebrity for a million pounds. If there was a spider in this room right now, I wouldn't be in it!

Great chat, Chelsea! Finally then, you've even got more followers than Helen Flanagan. That's pretty awesome, right?

Yeah, and she's the sexiest woman in the UK. Ha-ha! I'll try and be even better than that!

“I would love
to go on Big Brother!”

BAILEY

Our favourite bearded, bird-loving bloke tells Nuts about his barmy new tour!

Hello Bill! Your current tour is called Qualmpeddler. What the coconuts is a Qualmpeddler?

Well, a qualm is a worry and I like the combination of that and peddler, because peddler historically is someone that would travel the country selling stuff. I found out that peddlers would flog some stuff then hang around for a bit of a sing-song, perhaps of a bawdy nature. Eventually, they'd be chucked out of people's front gardens and move to the next town, which essentially is what stand-up is.

Amazing fact! Is it compulsory for comics to have wacky names for their tours?

I'm a sod for it. The last one I did was Tinselworm. Because a silkworm gets all the glory and I see stand-up as the poor relation in the arts. Acting's the real thing, music's the pure thing and stand-ups are grubby hawkers. In a nod to that, I said we're like tinselworms, the gawdy, cheap market knock-off worm.

Your gigs are a legendary mix of comedy and music. What else have you contemplated introducing to your act?

There are already many genres folded into the mix that people aren't aware of. I'm doing a lot of mind control, I'm doing contemporary dance, interpretive dance, drumming, mime, predictions, tarot readings...

There's a political edge to your new show. If you were put in charge of the country what law would you bring in?

I'd enforce five minutes of compulsory dancing. Everyone at some point has to do some ridiculous dance as part of their job, just to lower the temperature a bit so people don't take themselves so seriously.

What's the best heckle you've had at a show?

The most random ones are the ones I like. Ones where you think, "What? That has nothing to do with anything." The other day I was talking and someone shouted out, "Guildford!" It probably made sense to them at the time.

You seem to be one of those blokes who can turn his hand to all sorts. Are you pants at anything?

I tried to make a mailbox which went disastrously wrong. We have an outside door and the mail was being put through there and it landed in the alleyway outside the house, so the mail was getting ruined. I built a waterproof box for the mail. I was childishly delighted with it and screwed it to the door. Then I tried to open the door and it was way too big and the door wouldn't open. I said, "It's fine if we don't want to go in or out!" So we ended up burying the cat in it. When it died, of course. We posted the cat to the afterlife.

BILL
GAGS!

"My first job was selling doors, door-to-door. That's a tough job isn't it? Knock, knock. "Hello, can I interest you in a... oh sh't, you've got one already. Well, never mind!"

"There's more evil in the charts these days than in an al-Qaeda suggestion box."

"Thank God for Darwin, eh?"

"Why do people want to swim with dolphins? The equivalent would be an Indonesian fellow coming over here, going up to a farmer and saying, 'Can I get in with the cows? I just fancy scuffling about with them.'"

"People say, 'Bill, are you an optimist?' And I say, 'I hope so.'"

A couple of years back you played in front of 60,000 metal fans at Sonisphere. So, what's scarier - playing before Slipknot or supporting QPR?

I'd have to say going on before Slipknot slightly shades it. Only because there was a risk I'd be ripped apart by a bunch of rabid non-fans and flung about in the mosh pit and just end up as fur and beard with limbs flung about. That was scary. And exhilarating in a way that supporting QPR isn't.

Would you rather be an arena-filling comedian, a stadium rocker or QPR centre-forward?

It'd be great in the FA Cup final to go round three defenders, top corner, then turn around and you've got a Flying V guitar on and do a riff to celebrate. That would be the ultimate.

You were on the news recently talking about endangered birds. Which of our feathered friends should we be worried about?

Your common garden birds, like the sparrow - where are they? Put some food out and get rid of your cat! Cats aren't doing anyone any favours. Just build yourself a mailbox coffin and get rid of your cat, then put some seed out.

Do you birdwatchers live in constant fear of being mistaken for Peeping Toms?

In an urban area, that's a danger. You might be watching a chaffinch but there might be someone getting changed in a building behind the chaffinch. The two can work alongside each other. The bird community needs to reach out to the peeping Tom community and maybe borrow some of their equipment.

If you were tasked with building Noah's Ark, is there any animal you'd banish?

Any of the heavier animals will take up so much room, and the animals with hooves are unsteady on their feet. Any sort of current and the zebras will go flying. I'd stick with low-level animals that are quite nimble.

Would you ever be tempted to introduce live animals to your stand-up?

I nearly got an owl for the last show of the tour. I talk about an owl in the show so I thought if an owl flew over the audience it'd be great. Then I had a dream where it was the show and a huge owl landed on a kid's head and crushed his skull. I thought I'd probably avoid that.

Which animal would make the best comedian?

Parrots are virtually there. Just train them to remember 20 minutes of material. You can teach them to say good evening and a couple of swear words and people would love it. I saw footage of an African grey parrot that a bloke had trained to say "w*nker" every five minutes. I'd watch that for an hour... I have done!

Thanks, Bill! Finally then, as a goatee beard enthusiast, is the goatee dying out?

Yeah. I think Ricky Gervais is entirely to blame for that. If the goatee disappears it should be put at his door because it's a magnificent tradition and it's been sullied by putting it on the face of David Brent, an idiot. X

‘THE PIRATES

CAME AT US

WITH SWORDS...

WE PUMMELLED

THEM INTO

THE DECK!’

Nuts meets Carl “Rocky” Mason – real-life guardian of the seas!

IN THE last ten years, Somali pirates have murdered almost 100 sailors, attacked thousands of vessels and plundered over £250million in ransoms. Carl Mason is one of the men who's paid to stop them. Here, in his own words, is an insight into one of the world's deadliest jobs...

"I've always protected people for a living"

"I spent ten years in the Royal Marines, then I spent some time as a bodyguard – working for Oasis. Then I was a military advisor to a shipping company during the Gulf War, advising the commander on the risk of Exocet missiles in the Strait of Hormuz. One guy I knew in the same job was paid £20,000 to lower himself down and pull out an unexploded missile by hand!"

"My first pirate-hunting mission was like something out of a spy thriller"

"In 1994, I was working for a maritime company, taking stowaways on boats back to Africa. I got a phone call saying one of our boats had been hijacked by ten African pirates near Singapore – they'd stabbed one of the crew and tossed him overboard. My team came up with a ruse that we'd say we were insurance brokers, in suits and ties, who'd been sent by the shipping company to negotiate with them. Unarmed, we dumped the cash on the table. Then the back-up crew smashed the doors in and started bashing them with baseball bats. Someone chucked me a bat and we were going at them – bats vs swords – pummelling them into the deck."

"It wasn't until recently that the world needed full-time pirate hunters"

"I heard about the role in 2008 and approached a maritime company to ask for work. They only employ ex-Marines, paratroopers, Navy and special forces. I had an interview and two days later, I was defending ships carrying all sorts of cargo – rice, liquid gas, even people. If the liquid gas gets hit, it's like a nuclear bomb! I hadn't been in the job long before we came under attack."

"Piracy's a huge industry in Somalia"

"In the past, there have been up to 15 pirate-training camps in Somalia – possibly trained by ex-Foreign Legion. There even used to be a pirate stock exchange in Somalia – local people could buy shares in a pirate ship, buying them RPGs etc in return for a share of any loot. The pirates themselves are doped up on a drug called khat, and will stage mock executions or beatings to get what they want. They can come from all over Africa – Nigeria's a hotspot."

"I'll never forget the first time my ship came under attack"

"With two others, I was guarding a 28-man crew chemical ship on a mission through the Gulf of Aden to Djibouti. We were part of a 12-boat convoy with a military escort, so I felt pretty protected. But one day, I woke up and our captain had changed course. I immediately smelled a rat. Suddenly, we were being attacked from all sides. The pirates had AK-47s and RPGs. We had just ten flares and a high-pressure hose!"

"When they started firing at us, it was like a movie"

"The pirates eventually got on board. We could hear them firing bullets off the metal doors and celebrating on the bridge, so we shimmied along a tiny lip to jump into the sea but there was a pirate guarding our path. He caught us just as the last of us reached the stairs – bullets were ricocheting all around this staircase and then into the water as we dove in. It was like a movie – the bullets hitting the water and going past us. We swam into the clear – all the time thinking about sharks – and then a German helicopter fished us out of the water."

"Pirates don't care about the cargo, it's about the ransom"

"It isn't necessarily the cargo they're interested in – if they can take any commercial boat, they know they'll get at least £1m ransom for it. Shipping companies usually just give them the money and then a helicopter will dump the cash on the boat and fly off. The pirates will then escape on their boats."

"Most modern vessels are better equipped for attacks"

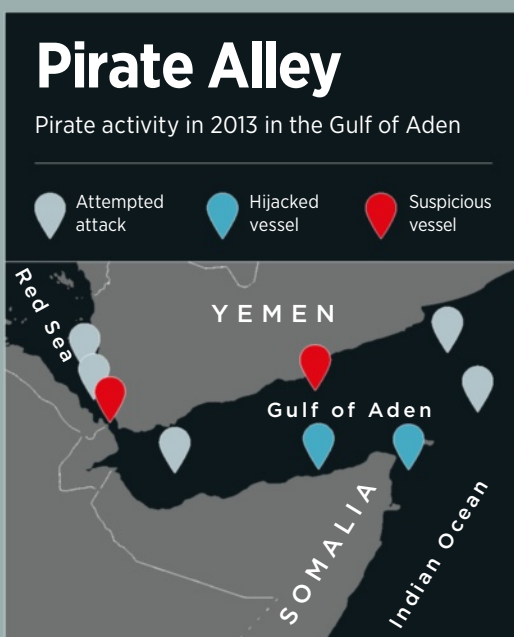

"At-risk boats will now have razor wire, weapons and panic rooms for crews to hide in. Guards might have AK-47s, Dragunovs, MP4s, MP5s, sniper rifles. On my first mission, we trawled the streets of Singapore, looking for guns, but we couldn't find any. We boarded unarmed and ended up having knives held to our throats."

"Attackers are easier to fend off than you'd think"

"Pirate speedboats are faster than the ships but, as they often use ordinary ladders, it's hard for them to get on. At the same time, if you fire a distress flare, then warning shots, often they'll disappear if they see you have guns. If they do board, you can lock the crew in the panic room, hold the pirates at bay and call for assistance. When pirates attack, they'll fire some shots first at the bridge to get the captain to stop. My advice is always don't stop – go full steam ahead!"

Nuts babes recently!”

India Reynolds

Hi India! How are enjoying today's booby fun?
Hello! I love it. All my favourite Nuts babes are here – Peers has the most amazing boobs in the world!

Do you ever try to take over and direct shoots like this?

I don't need to. We have a stylist on the shoot who puts us in the hottest outfits, and then the photographer does her thing. We just play around until we get the right pictures!

What's the cheekiest model behaviour you've seen lately?

The worst model behaviour always happens on nights out, usually in the club at the end of the night. There've been a lot of food fights recently! I'm surprised we're not barred from more places yet.

What's been the highlight of your year so far?

I've been really lucky and got to go away a lot, ha-ha! I went to Ibiza to shoot my 2014 calendar and squeezed a bit of partying in!

Can you mix a good cocktail?

I'm better at drinking them, but yeah, I'm OK, I guess. I can make a good mojito and a lovely jug of Pimm's!

Would you ever do reality TV?

I'd rather do I'm A Celeb... than Big Brother. I love watching it but I'd hate to be trapped in a house. I'd get cabin fever.

Thanks for the chat, India.

Finally, what awesome events have you got coming up?

Last month, we had the Hot Shots calendar launch, which was a right laugh – and it's for such a good cause. I love working with Help for Heroes. Apart from that, we've got Nuts' 500th issue to get excited about! ►

Holly Peers

Hello Holly! What do you make of today's booby brunette shoot?

Hello! I think we all go really well together, don't you?

Who couldn't you take your eyes off on this shoot?

India, because as everyone knows she's my wife. If I say anyone else, she'll kill me!

Do you ever nick any of the saucy undies you work with?

No, but I would if I could! But there's no room in my house for more sexy underwear!

What's the cheekiest model behaviour you've seen lately?

There were some pretty cheeky things going on during this shoot, ha-ha!

Summer's over, unfortunately. How was yours?

Great, thanks! I managed to get away a couple of times with work, which is always good.

Are you any good at making cocktails?

With my reputation? Erm... yes, I am! I'm really into coconut at the moment, so anything with coconut in it gets my vote. I'd much rather have people make them for me though. Here's a tip – make them strong!

If you were a pizza topping, what would you be?

Something meaty. Spicy beef?

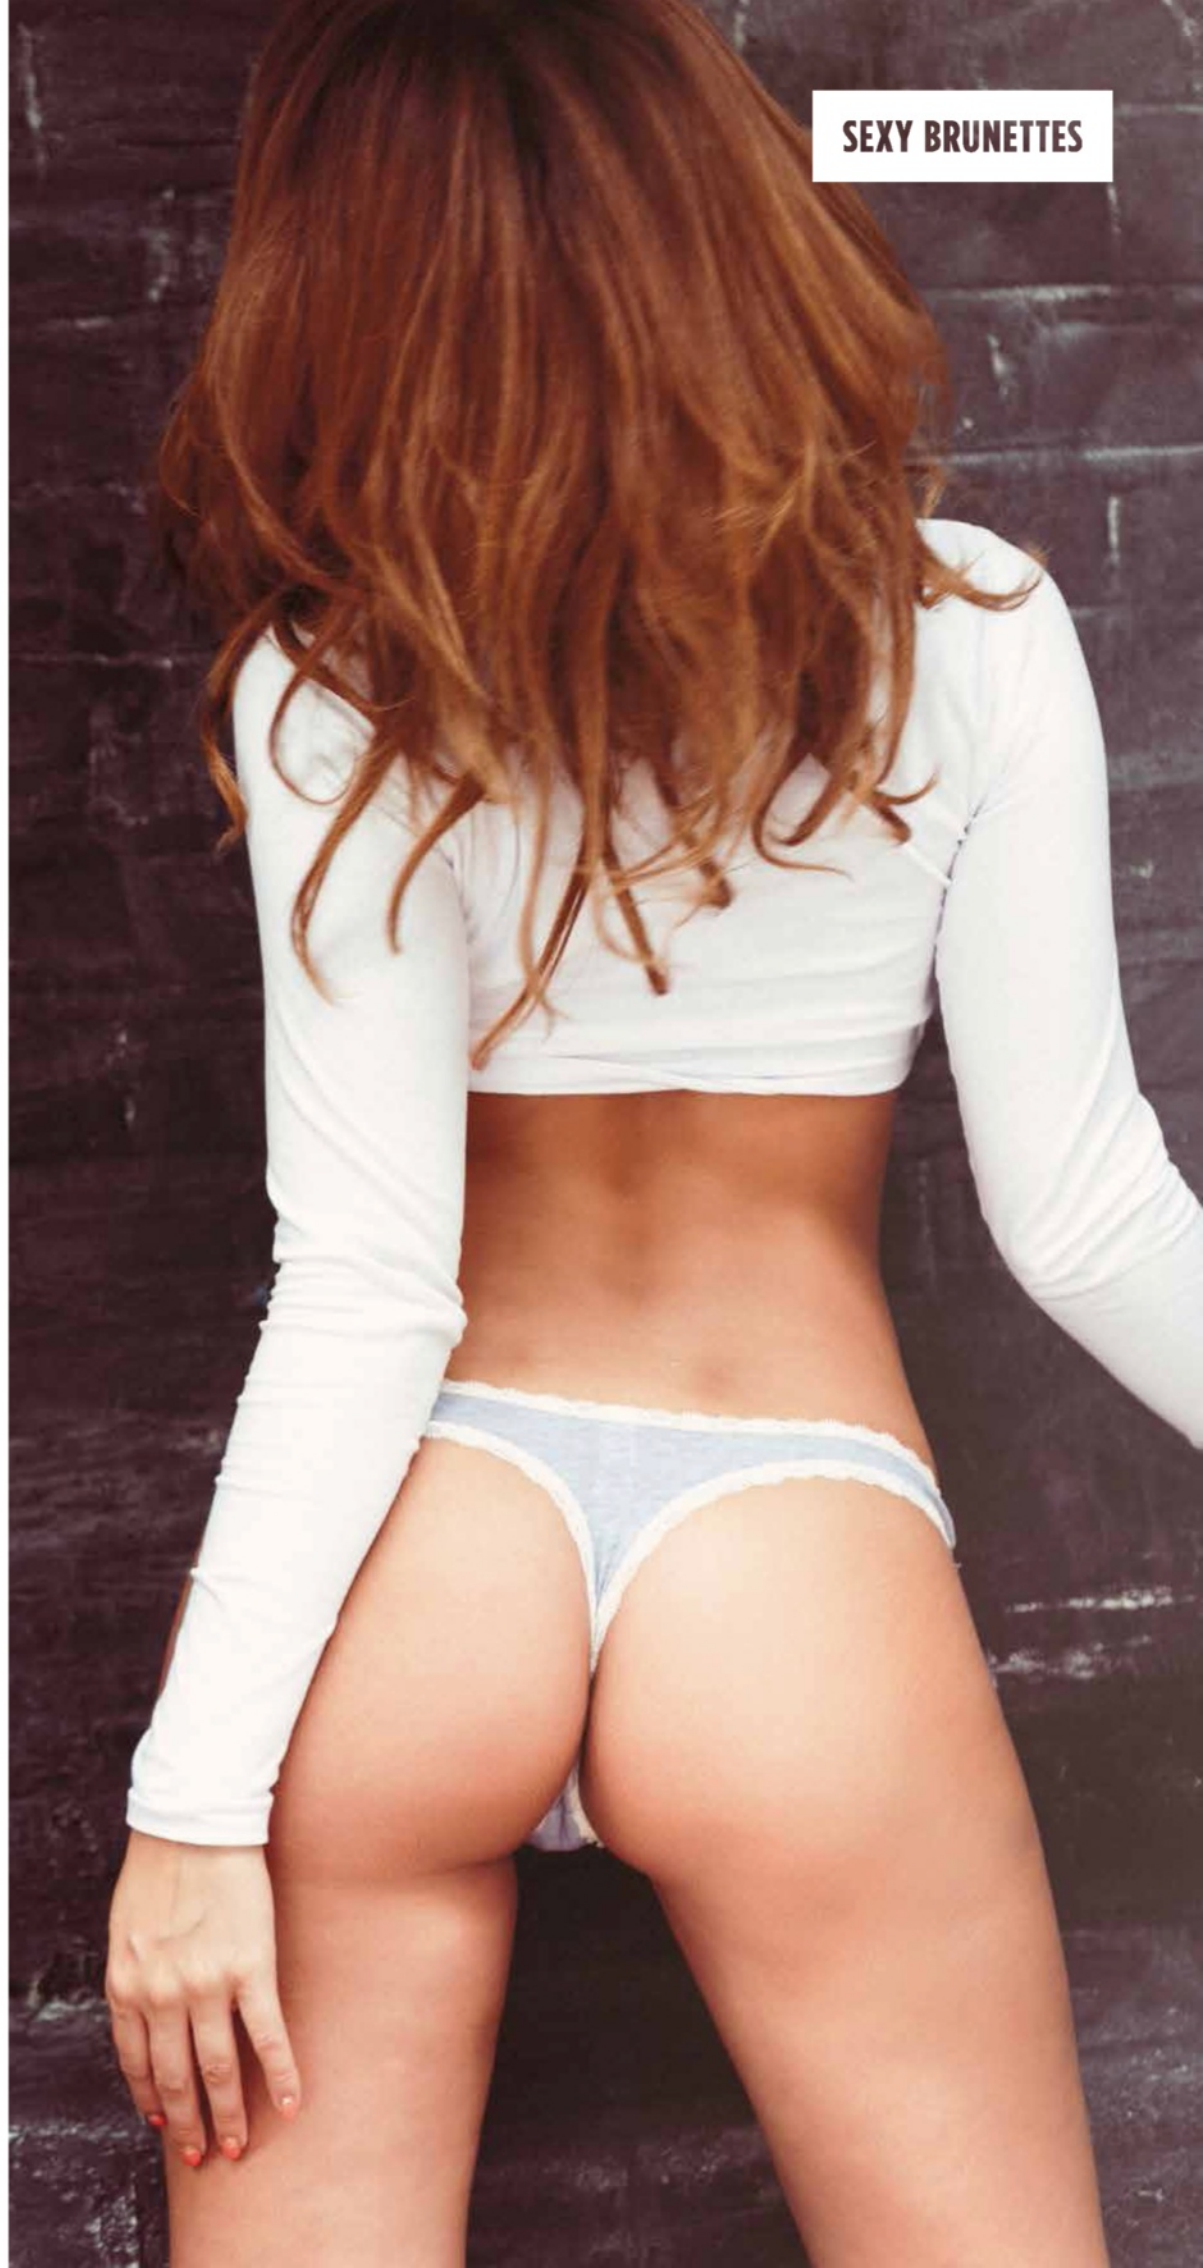

What's the sexiest thing you've seen recently?

I think this shoot is about the sexiest thing I've seen in a while. It got a bit out of hand at times. I hope you can tell how much fun we had when you see the pics!

Thanks for the chat, Holly.

Finally, which Nuts babe throws the best party?

Emma Glover. She has a knack for these things. Plus, she makes amazing cocktails! ►

Lacey Banghard

Hi Lacey! What have you been up to lately?
I've been working on the design for my own range of condoms – every packet will have my lips on!

Amazing! Did you enjoy the sexy brunettes shoot?

The shoot was just so dreamy! I absolutely love brunettes! I do appreciate a good natural blonde as well, though.

Who's the fittest on the shoot?

You can't really choose, can you? They all bring something different to the table. If you could mould them all together into one, you'd have the perfect woman. And there'd be one very lucky man out there!

What was the last really great night out you had?

I've been partying very hard lately, ha-ha! I'm going to see Everything Everything later. They're such a cool band.

Who's the fittest brunette in the world right now?

Adriana Lima. I like a nice Brazilian. Nicole Scherzinger is my new crush. I watch The X Factor just for her!

Have you ever been blonde?

I experimented a lot when I was younger. I've had highlights and colours. Once I had a two-tone. Light on the bottom, and dark on the top. But now back natural. Wink!

Would people recognise you if you sported a blonde wig?

Ha-ha! I have no idea, but I'm up for it! That would make a great Nuts shoot, wouldn't it?

Thanks, Lacey. Finally, are you excited about Nuts' 500th issue next week?

500 issues is crazy! You should be proud. Let's have a massive party to celebrate! ►

“Nicole Scherzinger is my new girl crush!”

“My lips will be on every packet of my condoms!”

“I’ve experimented with hair colour but I’m all natural now!”

“Adriana
Lima is fit –
I like a nice Brazilian!”

A woman with long, wavy brown hair is the central figure. She is wearing a light grey, lace-trimmed underwire bra. She is leaning against a weathered, light blue-grey metal structure, possibly a staircase or railing. Her right arm is raised, with her hand near her head. She is looking directly at the camera with a neutral expression. The background is out of focus, showing more of the metal structure and some greenery.

“Us brunettes look so hot together!”

Rosie Jones

Hello Rosie! This is a proper classic Nuts babe shoot, isn't it?

It certainly is!

Last time we did a shoot with the four of us it was one of my favourite shoots of all time, so I'm happy we got to do it again. Us brunettes look so good together!

Who couldn't you take your eyes off on this shoot?

I love them all equally. But India was looking especially hot as she's just back from holiday and has a nice tan.

Do you ever nick any of the saucy undies?

No, never. I wish I could! I'm pretty sure I'd get a phone call along the lines of, "Rosie, you've gone home in our underwear. Come back now!"

Which of you four would be first to perish if you were in a Scooby Doo-style horror movie?

Probably Lacey, bless her. You know in horror films the one who screams most dies first? That would be Lacey.

What was the last really great movie you saw?

I haven't seen a good new film for a while now. I just invested in Netflix, so I'm all over that. I keep hearing everyone go on about the Breaking Bad finale but I haven't seen season one yet! But it's on my list.

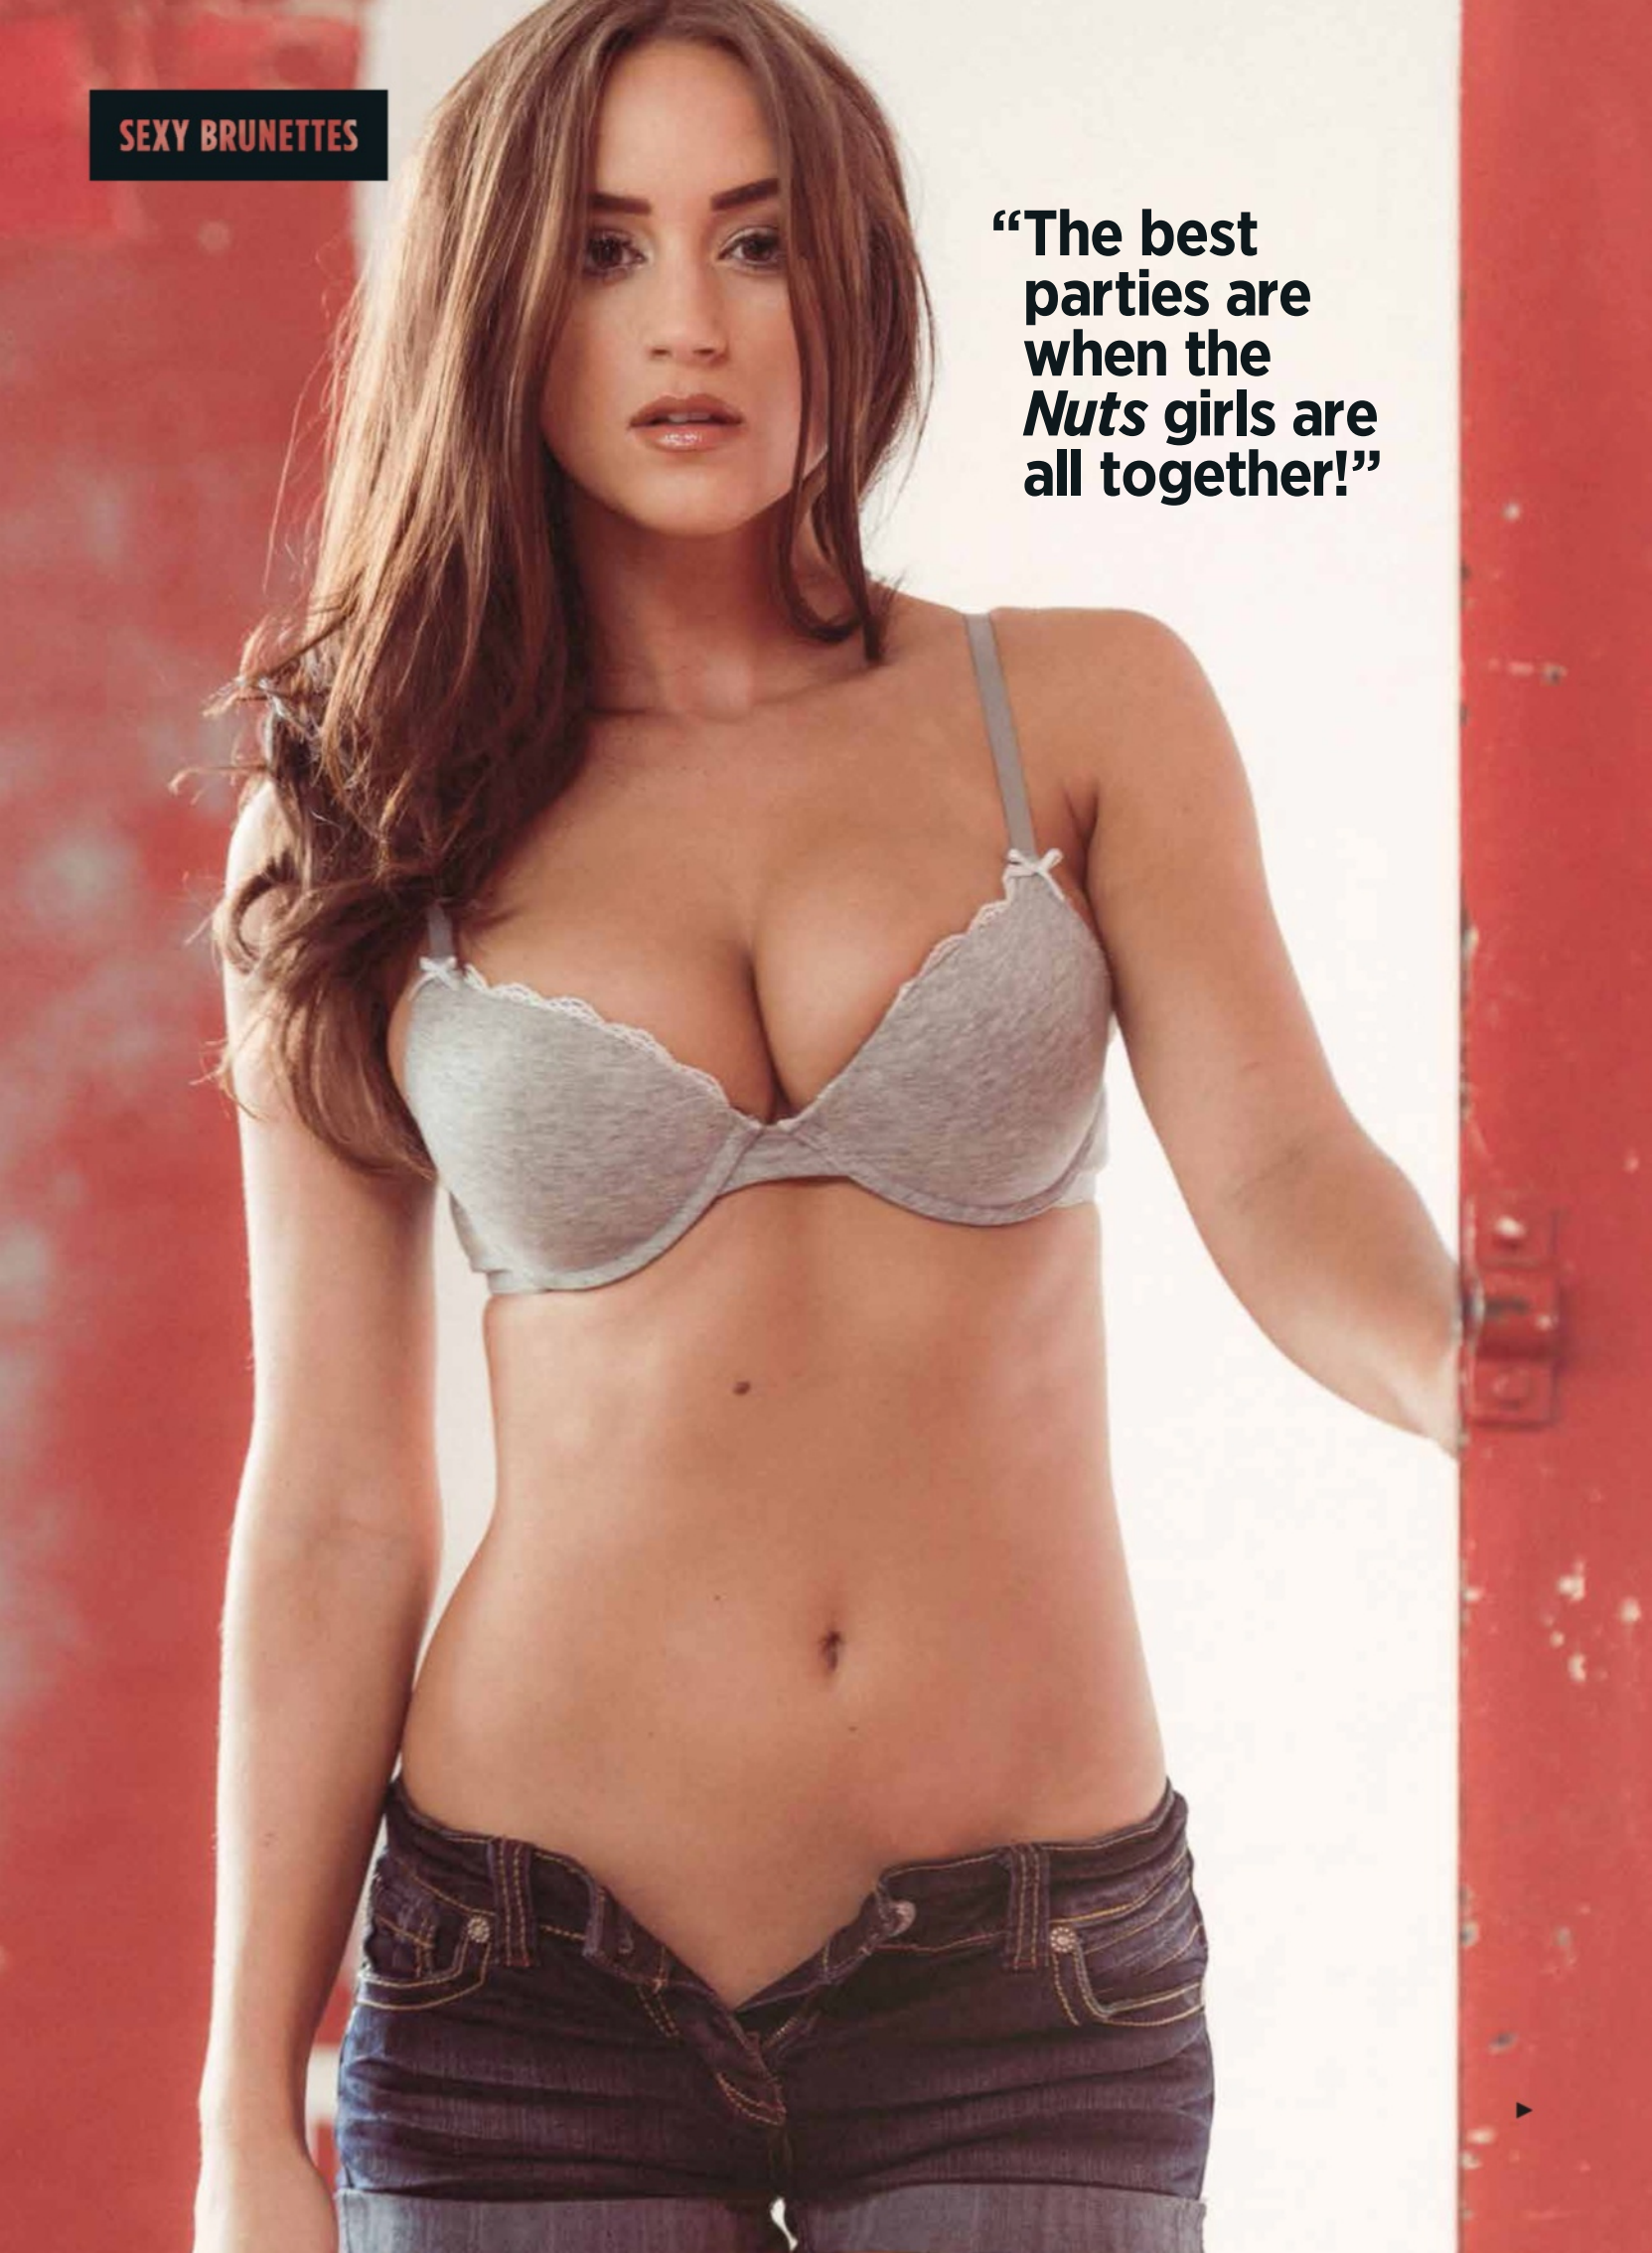

What tune never fails to get you going?

A$ap Rocky's Fkin' Problems is up there. Whenever I get together with the girls, we always end up singing that.

Thanks for the chat, Rosie. Finally, which Nuts babe would you say throws the best party?

The best parties are when we're all together, wherever we are. I'm moving house soon and I'm having a house-warming party. That will end all other parties! ▶

ENGLAND VS POLAND

TUESDAY • ITV/HD • 7.30pm

It's the crucial World Cup qualifier for Woy's Boys!

Friday 11 October

"We're gonna win this three-legged race!"

England vs Montenegro

ITV/HD • 7.30pm

England have made hard going of this Brazil 2014 qualifying group and need two wins from their last two games, so need to see off Montenegro tonight before taking on Poland on Tuesday. Fun fact: they've never beaten Montenegro.

"They were rubbish at hide and seek"

A League Of Their Own

SKY1/HD • 10pm

It's the series finale of the potty sports comedy quiz and what better way to round it off than by seeing guests Alan Shearer, Jason Manford and The Saturdays' hottie Frankie Sanford take on a milk-chugging contest and a rugby-based challenge?

ALAN CARR: CHATTY MAN

CHANNEL 4/HD • 9.50pm

The comic has some decent guests tonight – namely Nicole Scherzinger and Jonny Knoxville – but his chat with Gok Wan will surely be as camp as they come.

Saturday 12 October

Virgin Galactic: Space Trip

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC/HD • 9pm

As we all know by now, bearded rich bloke Sir Richard Branson is taking time off from his annoying TV ads to build the first spacecraft that will take minted tourists into outer space. This documentary looks at how things are progressing for rich Richard.

Django Unchained

SKY MOVIES PREMIERE/HD • 10pm

The proliferation of the N-word (113 uses, fact fans) is jaw-dropping, but fruity cussing aside, it's a fun, often a bit silly and insanely violent tale of freed slave Django (Jamie Foxx, above) partnering with a bounty hunter to free his slave missus.

THE JONATHAN ROSS SHOW

ITV/HD • 10.15pm

Future weeks promise decent guests on Wossy's new series but tonight it's Sandra Bullock, Cilla Black and The X Factor warbler James Arthur. Aarrrrgh!

Sunday 13 October

F1: Japanese Grand Prix

BBC ONE/HD & SKY SPORTS F1/HD • 6am

Sadly, this F1 season has become a procession, with 19 drivers fighting for second behind a grinning Sebastian Vettel (above). So enjoy another predictable weekend as Vettel wins, and some other people follow him.

World Grand Prix Darts

SKY SPORTS 1/HD • 7pm

It's World Grand Prix final in Dublin, where Michael van Gerwen (above) is reigning champ. Last year, many top seeds went out early – Phil Taylor only made it to the second round. Which may be a worry for his opponents, as he doesn't take failure lightly.

Homeland

CHANNEL 4/HD • 9pm

The third season's really gearing up as Saul (the one who looks like he used to be a woman) tries to find out who was behind the attack at CIA HQ at the end of series two. Meanwhile, ultra-serious weirdo Quinn gets all guilty about some unforeseen deaths and tries and make things better. And Carrie? Oh, just more drama.

SENNA

ITV/HD • 10.20pm

This docu on late great F1 driver Ayrton Senna isn't just brilliant, it also set a UK box office record for a docu, taking £375,000 in its opening weekend, despite having only a limited theatrical release.

NEW SERIES!

The flash flood came out of nowhere

The Gadget Show

CHANNEL 5/HD • 8pm

It seems like only last week we were knocking out previews, but The Gadget Show's back for series 18 of nerdy tech-fondling. And each year they swap a berkish bloke for another hot lady. So Countdown's Rachel Riley investigates Google's wearable tech Google Glass and super-hot Pollyanna Woodward fires up a Quadski.

The keeper took rock-paper-scissors defeat badly

England vs Poland

ITV • 7.30pm

By now, England should have dispensed with Montenegro to stand 90 minutes away from a place in next year's World Cup. An early goal and a comfortable route through? We'll take that. And if England didn't beat Montenegro? Let's not go there, eh?

The Tunnel

SKY ATLANTIC/HD • 9pm

Based on US series The Bridge (aired on America's FX channel earlier this year), that was in turn based on a 2011 Danish/Swedish series, this is a popular old concept. Here, Game Of Thrones' nutty king Stephen Dillane joins with French 'tec Clémence Poésy to track a killer doing the murders on both sides of the Channel Tunnel.

Freshers

ITV2/HD • 9pm

A new series which has the potential to be very messy and not a little embarrassing, as a group of freshers move away from home for the first time and take up a course at Luton and Bedford University. Expect lots of socialising, pub crawls and misbehaviour, and late-night dinners composed entirely of baked beans.

Hello Ladies

SKY ATLANTIC/HD • 10pm

Lanky co-writer of The Office Stephen Merchant leaves Ricky Gervais behind to write and star in this - a new comedy about a web designer living in LA out to find love with his pals. And very promising it is, too, offering laughs aplenty as we find Stuart (Merchant) frequently messing up in brilliantly cringe-inducing ways.

Peaky Blinders

BBC TWO/HD • 9pm

Tonight's the night when we find out whether snappily dressed Brummie crimelord Thomas Shelby can make himself the king of the racetrack bookie scene. Sadly, for him, things don't go to plan and he ends up preparing for the monster of all kick-offs. We've really loved this show - roll on series two!

Celebrity Juice: X Factor Special

ITV2/HD • 10pm

Keith Lemon's rarely off the box at the moment. We loved his recent take on Through The Keyhole, but it's in this comedy quiz - helped by Holly Willoughby and Fearne Cotton - that he really comes into his own. And tonight's a special edition. Cool!

Inside Combat Rescue

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC/HD • 9pm

We've found this series following pararescuemen of the US Airforce thrilling, fascinating and sobering as it brings us up close to the dangers of serving in a warzone. Here, they fly into an Afghan danger zone to save soldiers injured by an IED blast.

CONFESSION OF THE WEEK!

'Rude night on the balcony'

WHILE ON a girly holiday in Ibiza I pulled a fit bloke and we went back to the room I was sharing with my friends. We went out on the balcony and after kissing passionately for a few minutes, he bent me over the railings, pulled up my skirt and started caressing me with his skilled fingers. The people on the street below were oblivious, but knowing they could spot us at any moment gave me a huge thrill. Then he rolled on a condom and took me from behind. I couldn't contain my screams of passion. It was the best holiday ever!

Nickie Exeter

'My steamy spa session'

'MY BOYFRIEND treated me and a friend to a day at a luxury spa for my last birthday. While we were in the hot steam room, in our teeny thong bikinis, I couldn't help sneaking looks at my friend's perfectly formed breasts and long silky legs. When she caught me looking, I was so embarrassed, but then she put her hand on my thigh and said, "It's OK, no one ever needs to know," in a lust-filled voice. I looked into her mischievous green eyes and kissed her softly. She responded passionately, running her hands all over my toned body and caressing my naked breasts. At that moment someone came in, but luckily the steam hid us and we were able to cover ourselves. It was the best birthday present ever!

Alexia West London

'The workout of my life'

'I FOUND an offer for home personal training sessions and decided to give it a go. The trainer was a very fit guy with big muscles and there was a spark between us immediately. After getting hot and sweaty in the garden, we went into my lounge to do some floor work. He held my leg in the air to stretch it out and his eyes lingered on my thigh. As we made eye contact, I licked my full lips seductively. He then ran his hand down my leg and his fingers crept inside my shorts. I gasped with delight as we started kissing passionately. Within seconds, we were having frantic sex. He gave me the best workout ever and I've now booked him twice a week!

Claudia North London

'My fun with another girl'

AFTER FINALLY

admitting to myself that I was really into girls, I took the plunge and joined a dating website. I met this gorgeous girl and we were soon having filthy phone sex. One night, as we were having a rude chat, my doorbell went – and it was her! We barely said a word to each other as we went up to my room, and before I could blink, she was completely naked except for some small briefs. I couldn't take my eyes off her pert, tanned breasts and was beyond excited to be with a woman at last. As she put her tongue around my hard nipples, I thought I would explode. We spent the rest of the night and most of the next morning exploring each other thoroughly. I can't believe I didn't give in to my temptations earlier!

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Anna

20 London

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"Probably inside a wardrobe in Ikea! I was looking round with my boyfriend, feeling bored and horny, so I pulled him into a wardrobe, closed the door and pulled his trousers down. When we came out, there was an old man who'd been standing outside listening!"

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"I have a pull-up bar in my room which I use for exercise, but I also like to hang off it during sex! There's something fun about being suspended in mid air. Plus it's also a good workout!"

3 What's your favourite position?

"I like plain old missionary – there's nothing better than seeing the look on a guy's face as we're getting down to it. I also like doggy style as I have a mirror by my bed, so I can look at myself instead."

4 What one thing would you really like to try but haven't yet?

"I'd like to try having some fun with sex toys. I actually own a couple guys get scared whenever I bring them out!"

5 Ever got it on with another girl?

"Yes, I had a threesome with my friend and her boyfriend for his birthday last year. They were staying in a hotel in London as a treat. We were having some birthday drinks downstairs, then one thing led to another and it all ended up getting rather steamy!"

6 Do you ever engage in a spot of role-play?

"I like it when a bloke dresses as a pizza guy, knocks on my door with a box of fresh pizza, and then I give him a real treat! I did once have a sexy encounter with an actual Domino's delivery guy... I was feeling horny and he was fairly hot! He left with a smile on his face – and I bet nobody believes him when he tells that story now."

7 Have you ever made a rude video?

"No, but I have so many naughty pictures on my phone! I lost my phone a few months ago, and the guy who found it had clearly been looking through the photos. He couldn't stop blushing!"

8 What's the rudest thing you've ever done?

"I had sex with two lads once, at the same time. I met them in a bar and I couldn't tell the difference between them, even though one was a couple of years older!"

9 Is it better to give or receive?

"I'm a believer in giving and receiving – the guy should give and the girl should receive! Whether it's oil massages, him going down on me, or Louis Vuitton bags!"

10 What really turns you on?

"I really love men in uniform. When a soldier tells me he wants me, it's a great feeling."

Nuts SPORT

WORLD CUP EXCLUSIVE!

Welbeck: 'I'm at home as an England player!'

A few words with the man England hope will fire them straight to Brazil!

➔ Hi Danny! After playing 18 games and scoring eight goals, do you reckon you can call yourself an established England man now?

Maybe. It's great – the buzz you get playing for your country is fantastic. I don't know if I'm established yet though! I've got a long way to go in my career but as long as I keep improving, I'll be OK.

You seem to combine being driven with having your head screwed on quite well. What's your secret?

I've just grown up, as a player, in and around Manchester United where you're expected to perform and give your all for the team. The quality all around you and new players always coming in means you can't afford to be slacking, ever. I guess that's what keeps pushing me onwards.

Is there any pressure having the hopes of a nation resting on your shoulders?

Of course there is! But, you know, I've actually represented England for years now – Under-16s, Under-17s, Under-18s, Under-19s, Under-21s and now the senior side, so I'm quite at home with it. It's a great honour though, something I dreamed of when I was growing up watching all those great England players on the TV.

So who was your England hero when you were growing up back then?

Ha! Well, Michael Owen's goal against Argentina in the 1998 World Cup was amazing.

So here's the big question: only two games to go now – will England qualify for the World Cup in Brazil next year?

We've worked incredibly hard to get where we are so we just have to complete the job.

There's a lot of talent in the squad and the manager has us well organised now. We all know our jobs and what's expected of us. If we play as we know we can, we should be OK.

How's morale in the camp at the moment?

It's a good place to be around and, of course, I know a lot of the lads from Manchester United. We're very focused but also we enjoy each other's company. The manager has created a good atmosphere.

Speaking of the manager, what's Roy Hodgson like to play under?

He's very organised and looks into the detail of everything. He communicates with the players very well too, so we're all on the same page. He's a good person with so much experience he can draw upon.

Speaking of experience, Wayne Rooney seems to be right back on song. Presumably you enjoy playing together?

It's getting so we know each other's games inside out from club level, and hopefully we can take that same understanding and make it work for England. Look, he's Wayne Rooney – England is a stronger team with him in it, no doubt!

Danny Welbeck facts!

● His full name is Daniel Nii Tackie Mensah Welbeck. He was first spotted by Man United scouts when he was six, so it's fair to say that when he says he grew up around Man United in our interview (left), he wasn't kidding.

● He has scored goals at every level he's played for England, with 19 across all age groups.

● The area of Manchester he's from, Longsight, is notorious for the gang wars fought between The Longsight Crew and the Gooch Close Gang in the '90s and '00s.

● His first game as a senior for United came in the testimonial of one Sami Al-Jaber in September 2008. Al-Jaber is Saudi Arabia's second most prolific international goalscorer in history, and was also a flop at Wolves in 2000/01!

● In late 2008, it came to light that the Ghanaian international team were trying to coax Welbeck into switching international allegiance to them.

● He has played under both Sir Alex Ferguson and his son Darren, while on loan to Preston in 2010.

● In February, he ended a four-month first-team goal drought against Real Madrid, in Madrid!

BRAZIL BECKONS!

Wins against Montenegro and Poland will guarantee England qualify for next year's World Cup.

"Yes! Did you hear that? I finally clicked my fingers!"

Gerrard: 'I'm bound for Brazil!'

Stevie on why he thinks England will qualify!

Hi Stevie! Are you confident you're going to qualify?

It's in our own hands now, so you can't say fairer than that. If we win our last two matches, we're there. It won't be easy but we would have probably taken this at the start of qualification.

Were you shocked at the criticism the team received after the draw in Ukraine?

I didn't pay much attention. It wasn't the greatest performance, yet we did a job. The first job was to come away with something. Playing away was tough and we stood up to it.

What are the positives about this England side?

The back four showed in the last game how terrific they can be and in midfield we've got a nice balance of youth and experience. There's myself and Frank [Lampard] and younger lads like Jack Wilshere and Ross Barkley.

The form of Daniel Sturridge must give you hope he can do it for England.

Daniel's showing everybody how talented he is. He's got everything a top-class striker wants. The thought of him and Wayne forming a partnership for England makes the mouth water.

Have England underachieved in recent tournaments?

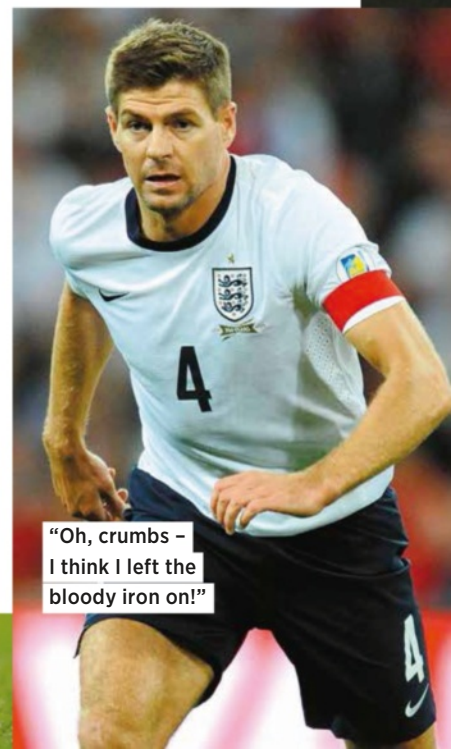

Absolutely. No one can look at themselves and say they've achieved what they wanted – I know I can't. For some it's the last chance to put right the wrongs of the past. I've always given my best for England. I don't want any more regrets so I'll give it everything.

Is Hodgson taking England in the right direction?

Yeah. The manager wants to work with us so we're difficult to beat but also keep the ball better. There's a good feel about the dressing room now. It's all about results but I have faith in this group of players. We won't be taking anything for granted, but the bottom line is, I have to be on that plane to Brazil!

10 things Mesut Ozil looks like!

Doppelgangers for Arsenal's new star man!

➔ IT'S FAIR to say that Mesut Özil has exploded onto the English footy scene, handing out assists galore and bagging a goal or two into the bargain. It's perhaps less fair to say that he's an odd-looking fellow, but then he is from Germany, a place where Franck Ribery is allowed to walk the streets in daylight.

The Zlatan burger!

Paris café turns star into tasty nosh!

➔ NEXT TIME you're in Paris, make sure you head for Doddy's Café, where you can chow down on "Le Zlatan", a massive megaburger created in honour of PSG star Zlatan Ibrahimovic.

Café owner, Jean-Philippe Grandin, wanted to create a burger "in the image of Zlatan", which apparently means 600g of beef topped with bacon, onion and three types of cheese.

It's so large, the café has to get special baps made for it, and so far just seven people have been able to finish it.

You could argue that at €29.90 (£25), it's a tad expensive, given that it doesn't even come with chips. This is probably because, as the menu claims, "even Chuck Norris couldn't fit it in his mouth." We won't hear such typical Gallic arrogance. We know that Chuck Norris can do anything.

"I am Zlatan! Eat me for I am delicious!"

"Mmm... the Messi burger's tastier!"

England have to stick with Joe Hart!

Hodgson must retain his faith in the out-of-sorts keeper!

➔ NONE OF us can deny that Joe Hart's going through a really bad patch. He needs confidence, and needs to inspire confidence, because there's no way the Joe Hart of a year ago would be conceding some of the goals he has been, especially in the Villa game where his positional sense was way off. But despite that, he hasn't let England boss Roy Hodgson down. Some people have been pointing out that Celtic's Fraser Forster had a great game against Barcelona last week. His shot-stopping is incredible, but I don't think he should be elevated into his country's number one position now – it'd put all the pressure on him in two important games and, if he was to make a mistake, you could lose him for good.

Hart needs someone like Ray Clemence, England's goalkeeping coach, to put an arm around him and remind him of the importance of mental strength and that everyone in the camp has faith in him. Stick with him for these next two, crucial games, and watch his confidence grow back.

"No, you're not having this Post-it note!"

Sorry, Scott Brown, you let the lads down!

SCOTT BROWN is devoted to Celtic and a good footballer. In his early days he was rash, and we've all been there – I certainly have! But when you're captain of your team, and indeed captain of your country, and you're leading the fight against Barcelona...

Look, it may not have been the hardest kick on Neymar but it was still a kick. People were saying, "You're going to get sent off for that in Europe." You're going to get sent off for it in the Premier League! It's the intent, not the content.

Scott will know that he let his team down and I'm sure he'll have apologised to them.

"Someone grab hold of me – my right leg's fallen off!"

I've spotted the next Michu!

WEST BROM'S performance against Man United was mouth-watering, and nobody's was more so than Morgan Amalfitano. When I saw Steve Clarke at Fulham a few weeks ago, he said to me, "I've got this lad and, trust me, he's the real deal."

Against Sunderland, he scored the kind of goal that makes you take notice. Then at Old Trafford he beat the defence all ends up and dummied David de Gea!

We could soon be talking about him like we were all talking about Michu last year.

"Ha-ha! Look, everyone! Jan wears foundation cream!"

We have to expect consistency from the FA... again!

IF I was Luis Suarez, I'd be ringing up the FA this week and saying, "Hey, what gives? No ban for Fernando Torres?" If that had been Luis, he'd have got a fine and a ban, no ifs, no buts. I thought consistency was meant to be being initiated.

I'm not saying that what Torres did deserved a ten-match ban, but the FA has to look at incidents like these and say, "Look, we can't have you doing this, whether you play for Chelsea or Cheltenham Town.

There are cameras on you, you're under scrutiny – the referee may not have seen what you did but everyone else did!"

I think Jose Mourinho would have accepted a short ban. Fernando's out for a few games now anyway, sparing everyone's blushes. But they should at least be asking Torres for a good reason why he's scratching an opponent's face during a match.

All players have to exist in the same world, with the same rules, and I'm not sure they do.

"Quote me on that!"

This week's biggest match debaters!

"The way the crowd get behind Liverpool doesn't happen anywhere else. It only happens at Liverpool, Rangers and Celtic" Er, OK, Graeme Souness.

"Vincent Kompany looked like a man"

Nothing gets past Matt Le Tissier.

"I asked Lee Cattermole if he was alright and he shouted back, 'No, I've just taken one in the knackers'"

Kevin Ball talks balls.

"You're never going to have players coming out of your ears"

It'd be a bit odd, Carl Jenkinson.

"How cool would it be to win 100m gold in Rio, grab a girl and just start samba dancing? I'm going to learn to do it"

Usain Bolt's planning ahead.

OO-ER SOUNDS A BIT RUDE CORNER!

"Ellen White pulls off the defender"

Sue Smith on England's handy lady striker.

"For me, it's all about the balls"

Seb Larsson gets right to the point.

"Rooney loves it in the hole"

Tony Cottee doesn't beat about the bush.

Meet the Burgess brothers!

The burly bros playing for England in the World Cup!

THE WAKEFIELD-BORN Burgess

brothers made history last week when three of them – there are four – were selected by England for the Rugby League World Cup. So who are these strapping siblings? Allow Nuts to tell you!

● England vs Australia, 2.30pm, 26 October, live on BBC1.

There are four Burgess brothers, all of whom play rugby league. They are twins Thomas and George, 21, Sam, 24 and Luke, 26. Only three of them will be playing in the forthcoming World Cup, though – Luke didn't make the squad. "It would have been a fairytale if all four brothers were involved," said coach Steve McNamara, "but it's not my job to do that."

George suffered embarrassment in July of this year when a nude photograph of him found its way onto the internet. We're not going to include it, though.

GEORGE

They all play club rugby for South Sydney Rabbitohs in the Aussie NRL. Sam was signed by one of the club's major shareholders, a certain Russell Crowe.

The combined weight of the Burgess brothers is 73 stone 11 pounds. Sam's the diddy one, weighing in at a waif-life 17 stone nine pounds.

When Sam played for Bradford Bulls, he was known as "The Beast of Bradford". He was picked for the NRL All Stars team before playing a game in the league.

THOMAS

One Burgess brother has signed for the Rabbitohs every year for the last four – Sam got the ball rolling in 2010, then Luke in 2011, George in 2012 and this year, Tom.

The Rabbitohs are named after the cry of "Rabbitoh!" that players would use when selling rabbits to supplement their income in the early 20th century.

LUKE

Sam's missus is also rather attractive. Her name is Joelle Hadjia, she's an X Factor Australia contestant, and we heartily recommend that you give her a Google!
